Theologians, scientists and philosophers seem to agree that Reality, absolute truth, or God, if you will, is an abstract reality. Not a reality that can be detected by our senses or known through our intellect. In this view mathematics are an expression of the mind of God. She is a mathematician! Further proof is in sacred geometries found in nature.

God is a Mathematician - SAND

That is the question that lies at the center of Mario Livio's interesting new book, Is God a Mathematician? Livio's title is something of a misnomer, since he barely talks about religion (and then only when discussing the persecution of Galileo) and even less about God. Instead, Livio starts with the observation that thinkers throughout history have made some amazing discoveries about how the world works, and that mathematics is the medium — the language, he suggests — in which they ...
