It's best that you take a step back and take a close look at your horse while he is saddled to determine fit. Your saddle fits just right if it sits level on your horse's back and the bars of the tree do not pinch. The front of your saddle should be positioned behind your horse's shoulder blade, allowing him freedom of movement. Your saddle is too narrow if the front of the saddle sits high. When the saddle is sitting directly upon the horse's withers, pinching can often occur.

Judging how well your Western Saddle fits your horse.

A narrow gullet width will keep the saddle perched higher. A wider spread will drop further down on the horse's back. Bar Angle is not often measured but the angle needs to be as close to the angle of the horse's back as possible. A narrow or tight angle will make contact at the bottom of the bars, not the top.
