The Wargames Research Group is a British publisher of rules and reference material for miniature wargaming. Founded in 1969 they were the premier publisher of tabletop rules during the seventies and eighties, publishing rules for periods ranging from ancient times to modern armoured warfare, and reference books which are still considered standard works for amateur researchers and wargamers. They are best known for their seminal ancient and medieval period rules, and also for De Bellis Antiquitat

The Via Regia: 17th Century Wargames Rules The WRG rules made use of the nominal 1:20 figure scale, in which one wargames figure represented 20 men. Casualties were considered as lost men and noted down with figures being removed only when a whole 20 had been lost. This was regarded as a major innovation.

My club was all over the place with its rules in the 70s but our favourites were the original WRG 'Flinch Point' rules. Part figure casualties, tables and all sorts - very modern then, old school now I suppose. I found a copy of the Napoleonic Bayonet Publications rules only the other day, together with their WWII rules. I was well chuffed.
